Last Week: Classification Speeches

Editor's Note: Rotary members are "classified" by the business or industry in which they serve. On gaining membership to Rotary, each new member is asked to give a brief speech of introduction.

Ian Spencer is originally from Havre, Montana, home of the Blue Ponies, and he played baseball in high school. Ian earned his bachelor's degree in business administration from DSU. He worked for Remco Software and has been an insurance agent with Western Agency since 2010. He joined Rotary in December of 2012. Ian is an avid Cubs fan and believes he is the "missing piece" to the Cubs making it to the World Series.

Ian isn't in this picture, but he'd like to be!

Marvin Eberts is originally from South Heart, North Dakota. He obtained a bachelor's degree in biology from UND before going on to chiropractic school at Northwestern Health Sciences University in Bloomington, Minnesota. Marvin bought his practice, HealthSource Chiropractic & Progressive Rehab, from Jon Kostelecky in 2012. Marvin's wife is a dentist, and they have one daughter named Madeline.
